

Commitment/Promise

=====

Well you know the best way to be love is to love like you have never never been hurt before and true love is hard to find but when found, it's everlasting, and A true friend is a true love...

In your picture i saw a beautiful, charming, adorable parts of you but the only thing which make my Heart starts racing was your eyes and I see myself falling for you...

The reason is that, I smiled to many people for more than a billion times, but when I first met you, my heart took over and smiled for the first time, and this tell's me that you might be the right woman for me to share things with..

I truly believe that God Himself brought you down from the glorious heavens above to be forever my angel and show you how very big my love is for you - everyday, every night, every time, all my life. I love you,I will hold you all my life..

My Dear I always think about you since we met each other, In your presence, I will always be honest, transparent and sincere. I want always to be at your side..

i guess my dreams are coming true,i might feels that you are my shinning star i know you will never fade. you will be my light to help me read my map of happiness....and i promise to do the same to you,, Love is a commitment of my will to treat you as God would treat you!